TRANSACTIONS FALLING OFF

Trades in New York Show Lack of Interest in Nearly All the Leading Lines—Coal Roads Not Affected by
Stories of Decision on Commodity
Clause of the Hepburn Law.

New York, July 30.—Except for a fair display of strength in the Gould issues and the metal stocks, the market today was a very uninteresting affair, the dealings showing a further tendency toward shrinkage, and the fluctuations narrowing until the active stocks hardly changed sufficiently in price to afford even a traders' profit.

The opening was very tame, and in the first hour there was no movement of consequence except in Lackawanna, which opened up ten points from its last sale and then more than made up the loss on a few transactions, and in Corn Products Refining, a narrow specialty, which rose sharply in response to the advance recently made by the company in the prices of its principal products—glucose and starch—as an offset to the high prices for corn now prevailing. Around noon, the dullness was to some extent relieved by a movement in the Gould stocks, based on a reasonably definite statement to the effect that arrangements had been completed for meeting the Wheeling and Lake Erie notes, which mature on Saturday, the bonds of the Washburn Railway, the guarantor of the notes, displaying unwonted strength and activity on what was tantamount to an assurance that the threatened crisis in Washburn affairs had passed.

Given No Particulars.
None of the statements made during business hours in regard to Wheeling and Lake Erie affairs gave the full particulars of the arrangements of the financing of the road, but it was denied that an alliance of any kind had taken place and the Erie Railroad had been entered into.

In the general market there seemed to be a considerable supply of stocks for sale on the rallies, but the selling was not pressed, and ceased when prices receded. The business fell well below yesterday's level, and the volume of transactions was not more than about a third of what it was a couple of weeks ago. Manipulation of a number of inactive specialties could not disguise the apparent exhaustion of the strength of such stocks as Union Pacific, Reading, and St. Paul, and even the Erie issues showed a tendency to droop.

There was a rumor to the effect that a favorable decision in the suit to have the commodity clause of the Hepburn law declared unconstitutional would soon be rendered, but it failed to help the coal stocks.

Gould Stocks Strong.
Only the Gould stocks, Canadian Pacific, and a few narrow specialties showed any strength at the close, the list being on the whole heavy, though not weak. Call money was perhaps easier than on any other day this year, most of the loans being made at 1 per cent, but the ease in this class of accommodation may have been the result of preparations to ship currency to the West, the banks showing a disinclination to make time loans, the rates on which were firmer in consequence.

Dealings in bonds were fairly large, those of the Gould roads making gains, while the Erie convertibles declined with the stock.
No change was made in the Bank of England rate, and the institution made a return that was exceptionally strong for this time of year. Consols were heavy, but the general market in London and afterward on this side. It was to the advance in the metal abroad more than to any news or occurrences here that the strength of Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda, and American Smelting and Refining was primarily due.

NEW YORK MONEY.

New York, July 30.—Money on call today opened at 1 per cent; highest, 1 1/4; lowest, 1/2. Most of the loans were at 1 1/4 per cent higher for the shorter periods today, although demand was light. There was a firm undertone, loans apparently holding their former levels for higher rates and a broader market. Rates were 2 1/2 per cent for three days, 3 per cent for five days, and 3 1/4 for four months; 3 1/4 for five months, and 4 for six and seven months.

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

New York, July 30.—United States government bonds steady. In the general bond market, the tone was maintained in the Gould issues, Erie convertibles reacted sharply; elsewhere the trading was without feature.
